
Practical training that will help your career this Spring/Summer 2009 - with a special student offer

Out of term courses for students looking for careers in the humanitarian sector

Who are RedR?

We are the leading training and recruitment charity working in the area of international disaster relief. We train people in the UK and around the world improving emergency response and assisting people affected by natural disaster and conflict. We recruit experienced professionals following major global emergencies and advise and train potential new relief workers such as graduates and students.

Working with graduates and students to build the next generation of aid workers

Our training complements your academic achievements and can help you in the pursuit of work in the field. We run sector renowned introductory courses where the emphasis is on practical training. This introduces you to the realities and essential skills and knowledge needed for life in the field. You will also understand the opportunities that there are in this diverse, exciting and rewarding sector.

The following upcoming courses will be of particular interest

Personal Security in Emergencies (PSE)

11 – 14 June

A foundation course to discuss, learn and apply approaches and measures to improve your personal security when living and working in insecure environments

So you think you want to be a relief worker?

13

June

A dynamic one day workshop that is essential for anyone considering working in the sector, including first hand experiences from relief workers

Needs Assessment in Emergencies

22 – 25 June

Learning how to conduct accurate, effective and timely assessments is key to the preparation and planning of humanitarian projects

We also run credit-rated courses that can count towards a Masters Programme – see our website (www.redr.org.uk) for more details.

Where and how much?

We are a not-for profit charity and our courses are priced appropriately for students and the third sector, starting from just £70. See our Training Calendar at www.redr.org.uk for dates, location and prices.

Special Student Offer

Book either Personal Security in Emergencies or So you think you want to be a relief worker? and receive a 10% discount on Needs Assessment in Emergencies if you book before 1st June. Quote StuOffer.

How do I apply?

Application forms and full details of these and all our other training courses are available:

helping rebuild lives in times of disaster

Practical training that will help your career this Spring/Summer 2009 - with a special student offer*

Out of term courses for students looking for careers in the humanitarian sector

- from our website, www.redr.org.uk
- by emailing the training team at training@redr.org.uk
- calling on +44 (0) 207 840 6000